HUNDREDS DIE IN OHIO STORM AREA

LORAIN, "CITY OF DEATH," GOES UNDER MARTIAL LAW

STAGGERING TOLL IN WAKE OF HURRICANE

Lorain, Erie and Sandusky Counties Present Scene Not Equaled in the State Since Terrible Days of the Dayton Flood.

Cleveland.—The death toll of the hurricane, which swept in on the gay Saturday night crowds of Lorain and crumpled a crowded theater and other buildings, has not been fully determined, but the available estimates declare that from 150 to 200 are dead in Lorain, with 400 or 600 injured; twenty-five dead and 100 injured at French Creek, and seven dead and fifty injured in Sandusky.

The toll of lives at Peoria, Ill., and vicinity mounted to seven with the deaths of two persons, who had been injured by falling trees. More than fifty Peoria residents were injured during the storm, fifteen seriously.

Fifteen persons lost their lives when the storm swept the upper Mississippi valley in Iowa.

Johnny Kilbane, former feather weight champion of the world, was in Lorain when the tornado struck and is now reported to be missing.

Estimates by Lorain business men as to the extent of the property damage ranged from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000. Most of this, it is said, is not covered by insurance. Property owners who suffered loss are still too dazed by the spectacle of destruction to plan for rebuilding or to count the measure of their damage.

Late Sunday, national guardsmen arrived and placed the city of Lorain under martial law.

The decision to put the city of death and wreckage under martial law came after a conference between Brig. Gen. John R. McQuigg of Cleveland and officials of Lorain. Mayor George Hoffman asked McQuigg to take charge of the situation. This action was due to the result of the disaster and not because of vandalism.

Every available form of emergency relief has been concentrated on Lorain.

Sandusky was the first victim of the cyclone. The blast of the elements first appeared as a water spout off the lake front and ripped a fifteen-mile path east toward Cleveland, laying waste about twenty-six city blocks of Lorain, which included most of the downtown business district.

The storm seemingly spent its fury after wiping out French Creek.

It fearfully died down as it neared Cleveland and all the larger city suffered was a high wind and a severe rainstorm.

Three principal disasters were reported from Lorain. At least a score and probably many more were crushed to death with the collapse of the State theater. About 200 persons bathing at the municipal beach rushed to the bathhouse when the storm broke. Many were rushing to death.

The building was flattened down upon them and a great tidal wave swept in, drowning scores who were trapped in the wreckage. Then the freighter Henry Ford II broke her moorings and crashed down upon and demolished a bridge, hurling many into the lake either to be drowned or dashed to death against the rocks in the raging waters.

These were the major catastrophes, but 300 or 400 residents were destroyed and an unknown number of pedestrians killed in the downtown section. The police estimate that nearly 5,000 are homeless.

A cursory canvass of the east side of Lorain reveals that approximately 100 persons are missing and their fate is unknown. Many probably are in hospitals in Lorain, Cleveland or Elyria. In this section of Lorain homes were flattened, the largest timbers became mere bits of kindling wood before the fury of the hurricane and streets were blocked with the furniture of all kinds, porches, wall sections and trees.

HUSBAND JAILED FOR MURDER ON SICK WIFE'S CONFESSION

Marysville.—Alex Summers' body was found buried near a slough near Marysville last April. The crime was a mystery until Mrs. Alfred Bollinger, driven almost insane by the strain of the secret, told of the slaying while delirious. She is now recovering. Bollinger admitted he had killed Summers with an ax during a quarrel at their camp.

Mrs. Bollinger's first husband was James Mellark, who served time for the murder of a circus man at North Bloomfield in the eighties. He died in April, 1923, and the following month Mrs. Bollinger married again.

ANTI-KLAN PLANK LOST BY 7 VOTES

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION SCENE OF GREAT EXCITEMENT

BRYAN'S PLEA FOR UNITY HAS DESIRED EFFECT

League of Nations Question Referred to a Vote.—Platform Reaffirms Constitutional Guarantees Without Mentioning Names.

New York.—Early Sunday morning, after a 10-hour continuous session, marked by many disorderly scenes of acrimony and dispute, the Democratic convention voted to accept the majority plank on the Ku Klux controversy, reaffirming religious freedom and constitutional guarantees, without specifically mentioning the Klan. Also, the platform does not contain the Wilsonian plank on the League of Nations. Attempts to substitute a plank in the last named controversy, for the one adopted by the platform committee was lost by a heavy vote. But the Klan vote was close and the taking was the signal for as high tide of sentiment as has seldomly been witnessed on a convention floor, and certainly not in any Democratic meeting of many years.

When after repeated challenges and changes of votes in the various delegations the result was announced it was 542 3-20 votes in favor of the plank as the committee recommended it, and 541 3-20 votes in favor of the minority plank which would have singled out the Klan by name.

Another roll call was ordered on the adoption of the platform as a whole and as substituted by the platform committee.

When the roll call had been verified by the clerk at the end of the roll call the unofficial vote stood 547 against the substituted plank denouncing the Klan to 540 favoring it.

The fight in the fifth session, with the temper of the delegates at such tension that a threat was made to take the convention elsewhere, did not lack precedents in the history of Democratic national conventions.

In 1881 the convention did not begin balloting until the fifth day.

The 1860 convention actually did move from Charleston. A fight on slavery and states' rights reached far more bitter proportions than did the differences on the Klan and the League.

After five days and fifty-seven ballots, the convention broke up and re-assembled in Baltimore, and Stephen A. Douglas was nominated.

The bolters, meanwhile, had nominated J. C. Breckinridge.

KLAN MAJORITY REPORT

The Democratic party reaffirms its adherence and devotion to those cardinal principles contained in the constitution and the precepts upon which our government is founded, that congress shall make no laws respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances, that the church and the state shall be and remain separate and that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States.

These principles we pledge ourselves ever to defend and maintain. We insist at all times upon obedience to the orderly processes of law and deplore and condemn any effort to arouse religious or social dissension.

KLAN MINORITY REPORT

We condemn political secret societies of all kinds as opposed to the exercise of free government and contrary to the spirit of the Declaration of Independence and the constitution of the United States. We pledge the Democratic party to oppose any effort on the part of the Ku Klux Klan or any organization, to interfere with the religious liberty of political freedom of any citizen, or to limit the civic rights of any citizen or body of citizens because of religion, birthplace or racial origin.

Happy Over Platform

New York.—Governor Al Smith has announced his pleasure over the platform as adopted:

"That is the expression of the supreme body of the party," he said. "It must be accepted by every Democrat. That includes me."

Tom Taggart, Indiana boss, declared:

"Ralston is stronger now than he has been at any time," and predicted Ralston's nomination.

George E. Brennan of Illinois declared he and his group would go forward with the nomination of Smith.

"John W. Davis stands unscathed by the Klan fight," his supporters proclaimed in arguing that his candidacy had brightened as the result of the Klan battle.

Supporters of Carter Glass adopted a similar attitude.

"We ask no quarter and we will give none," William G. McAdoo shouted to followers the night before the battle.

Rev. Edwin E. Meiras, pastor of the Sacramento Nazarene church, charged that establishments flourish in that city where nude women dance for the entertainment of men.

In the midst of an uproar following the vote on the Klan plank, Franklin D. Roosevelt, leader of the Al Smith forces, raised himself on his crutches, made himself heard and shouted: "We have now proceeded to the Sabbath morn. I move that the convention adjourn until 9:30 o'clock Monday morning." There was a rolling chorus of both "ayes" and "noes," but Chairman Wash, evidently exhausted, brought the gavel down with a wallop and declared the motion to adjourn had carried. The delegates poured from the hall in confusion.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE HITS GAS MONOPOLY

President Coolidge has handed the gasoline trust a body blow by directing the Attorney General to bring action against many of the large oil companies who, according to the investigating body, have been parties to a gasoline "combination, conspiracy and monopoly" organized for the purpose of keeping the price of gasoline at a figure far too high.

This action on the part of the president is considered one of the most sweeping anti-trust moves that has been made for years and is one that all automobilists will heartily endorse. Drivers of cars, no matter whether owners of twin sixes or humble flivvers, will be afforded relief if the courts back up the president. It was learned today that Mr. Coolidge shortly after he took office as president ordered a searching investigation of the gasoline trust; he watched the proceedings carefully and as soon as sufficient evidence was collected directed Attorney General Stone to draw up the necessary papers. Action is also directed against a number of "Secondary defendants" who, it is claimed, were in the combination to keep the price of gasoline at a high figure. These secondary companies are charged with accepting licenses from the primary defendants, this action being taken to safeguard the suit.

This suit is of even greater magnitude than the "trust-busting" actions taken by the late Theodore Roosevelt, who in one of his drives against combinations in restraint of trade directed action against the Standard Oil company alone. The action now taken contemplates restricted measures applicable to all the great oil producing companies in the country.

The petition in equity was filed by Edwin A. Olson, United States attorney for the northern district of Illinois, representing the attorney general.

This action on the part of President Coolidge further demonstrates his courage and his determination to see that the people of the country will have their interests protected no matter who the offender may be. Coolidge is determined that every citizen shall have a square deal.

Clad in the full uniform of a first lieutenant in the army air service, O. H. Dolph, one of the trio arrested recently at Long Beach for suspicion of burglary, was sentenced to ninety days in jail on a charge of vagrancy.

A CASUAL STATEMENT BUT A KEEN OBSERVATION

Last Saturday evening Golden West Lodge F. & A. M. officers and working team came down from San Francisco to exemplify the third degree in the local hall of Charity Lodge.

Dr. A. L. Zilmer, who lives in the suburbs of Campbell, but is a Past Master of Golden West, was the leading spirit of the team. The work was well done and was a real inspiration to the Campbell men. Even the candidate recognized the high aim and splendid execution of the team, especially that of the floor workers.

It was at the table of refreshment that the chaplain of Golden West, Dr. Murray, paid his respects to the Campbell people in general.

On entering the town he was greatly impressed with our two schools, the Union High School and Union Grammar School, their fine buildings and large and generous grounds, while the tidy upkeep of the highway added much to the general impression. When he came to the library building, erected by the Country Woman's Club, he could not resist the urge to survey the interior. He remarked his pleasure on seeing the fine appointments of the building and said when his eyes fell upon that fine portrait of Frances Willard hanging in a recess of the reading room, that his mind was at once clear. He then understood why the people of Campbell had hit such a high note in educational matters. When the women of a community catch the spirit of character building, represented by Frances Willard, the one woman whom our country has seen fit to honor by placing her statue in the National Library Building at Washington, we may expect to see our schools, our churches, reading rooms and libraries emphasized and receiving first attention. He said "It is no wonder to me now why Dr. Zilmer chose the environs of Campbell in which to erect his spacious residence and future home."

CAMPBELL LEAGUERS HOLD OPEN HOUSE

The play "Bachelor Hall" was presented by the Epworth League of Evergreen at the Campbell High School Annex Friday evening for the benefit of the local League.

The young people had their lines well in hand and gave a good interpretation of the play, but owing to the C. E. convention and many away on vacations, there was not as large an audience as would otherwise have been present.

The Leaguers will have an "open house" every evening during the summer months. They have a room furnished at the church and a Leaguer will have charge each evening where any young people who are spending their vacation in our community or any young people of the community, might come and spend their evenings having a clean, good time.

Fill Radiator With

Old Sprinkling Can

Filling stations and garages make a practice of filling radiators with an ordinary sprinkling can which makes a convenient receptacle for handling water but does not lend itself for the purpose intended. In filling the radiator considerable water is usually wasted owing to the inconvenience in handling the can. To eliminate this difficulty an ordinary pipe ell can be soldered to the spout of the sprinkling can and thus direct the water into the radiator regardless of the angle at which it may be necessary to hold the can.—Automobile Digest.

Wooden Wedge Handy in Examining Tires

When examining the inside of a casing for a puncture, fabric break or weak spot most of us try to force the beads apart with both hands, supporting the tire meanwhile upon our shoulder as best we can. This task may be enormously lightened by using a wedge made of a substantial bit of wood three-quarters of an inch thick and three to five inches long, according to the size of the tire. This wedge is slipped between the beads and pulled around the circumference of the casing with one hand, while the other hand is free to hold the tire.

WHAT DOES THE FOURTH MEAN?

When that immigrant answered the naturalization question of what was the Fourth of July by saying "It's a day off," he really hit upon a matter that in recent years seems to have more truth than poetry about it. However there does appear to be a meaning and significance regarding holidays in general, especially of the grand Independence Day. For many, many years the people of the United States have celebrated this day with bombing guns and blazing fireworks, which, of course, is entirely proper, provided instead of a "day off" the over exertion of powder doesn't mean many "lives off."

This matter of insane celebration has been toned down with the campaigns of safety-first and other educational measures. However we believe the prime reason why the Fourth of July is going to mean more and more to all of us each year, is the fact that we are beginning to appreciate the day, not in memory only of so many battles fought and won, but in recognition that as time goes on there will be less need of any battles being fought excepting those of sound statesmanship and international comity. When the Fourth of July means to us, not only freedom from a yoke of a nation across the water, but a happy fact that never again is likely to happen such an international catastrophe, which the Declaration of Independence rendered inevitable, and that in the future and the further away we get in point of years from July 4, 1776, the nearer we are approaching any necessity for the record making instrument of declaration signed on that day, then will the dawn of the Fourth of July arise over a nation whose hearts are set upon the millennium of peace.

If they would make safety first in war and safety first in peace, safety would be first in the hearts of the countrymen.

They may go from New York to San Francisco in a day, but they'll be in a daze doing it.

ORCHARD CITY TO RECEIVE FAMOUS "40" PARAMOUNT PICTURES

Heralding what is expected to be the most successful season in Motion Pictures, Manager A. G.
Noftz, of the Orchard City Theatre, yesterday announced that he had just completed negotiations with the San Francisco offices of the Famous Players Lasky Corporation for the entire group of forty Paramount Pictures to be released next season by the Paramount Company. These pictures are the very latest releases and include works of many of the best known stars and directors.

Produced in the best equipped studios in the world, Paramount Pictures for more than twelve years have been known all over the world as the productions which feature the most interesting stars and stories and have the best technical settings.

All of the most popular plays, novels and short stories produced or published here and abroad, form the field from which the dramatic material for these pictures has been selected, and in booking them for the Orchard City Theatre, Manager A. G. Noftz further evidences his policy of giving the Motion Picture patrons of this town the best available in screen entertainment. Occupying an important place in the series is "The Covered Wagon", James Cruze's picturization of Emerson Hough's novel which will be shown at the Orchard City Theatre for the first time in a Motion Picture Theatre. Also included in the group is the picture which marks Rudolph Valentino's return to the screen, "Monsieur Beaucaire".

Other outstanding productions in the list are "Manhandled" featuring Gloria Swanson; "The Alaskan", with Thomas Meighan; "Feet of Clay", a Cecil B. De-Mille production; "Wanderers of the Wasteland", the first successful attempt to film a picture of length in its natural colors;
"North of 36", another of Emerson Hough's great stories; "The Passionate Journey", featuring Pola Negri.

Manager Noftz states that these productions will be shown in the Orchard City Theatre regularly, and at time current with their release, during which time they are enjoying their premier showing in the leading theatres throughout the country.

BACK TO NATURE

EVERYBODY likes to preach, every right-minded person hankers to give other folks good advice. If you're not bursting with a desire to tell your friends and neighbors how to mend their ways there's something seriously wrong with you. Better have a mental examination to see what's the matter.

Our special mission is advising folks what to eat. Today we're thinking particularly about bread. Dark bread. Whole Wheat bread. Bran bread. Omar bread. Dark bread, "nature bread," is better for you. Every once in a while somebody comes in and says, usually with a sigh, "Well, the doctor orders me to eat dark bread. I suppose" another sigh, "I'll have to do it." Then by and by that person will tell how much better he feels. He does n't like white bread any more. It has n't any taste to it.

The most folks want bread too fresh. They want it too soft. They squeeze a loaf, give the clerk a terrible look of suspicion and say, "Is this today's bread?" However, if you must have fresh bread, we get Everybody's Bread at about 10 o'clock every morning, right from the oven, still hot. You see we don't expect to reform the world wholly, for a while, yet. In dark breads we have Everybody's Whole Wheat, unsweetened; Langendorf Whole Wheat, sweetened; Langendorf Bran Bread, and the famous Omar Bread. Whatever sort of bread you want, Blaine's is the place to buy it.

This is the season of all seasons when every effort should be exerted to prevent fires. With the advent of July 4th, every parent should exercise a close watch on the fireworks performances of their children. Smoldering crackers cause many destructive fires every year. Let us all be on the alert and see that Campbell is spared this year.

Golden State News of Interest to All

Naval procedure at San Diego indicated that Lieutenant Ervine R. Brown, naval paymaster, charged with desertion and a shortage of $124,000 in his accounts, had been found guilty on both counts. Under naval procedure, had Lieutenant Brown been found not guilty on either of the counts he would have been called before the court and the verdict read to him. The findings of the court are to be sent to the judge advocate general in Washington and then go to President Coolidge for final action.

With Alfred J. Bollinger in jail, charged with the murder of a man at Marysville, April 28, believed to be Alex Summers, the Yuba county jail contains four persons awaiting trial for murder. Senator from the 27th District of the State of California.

This announcement and my candidacy are on my own initiative and not at the request of friends or any organization whatsoever. I am not an unwilling candidate yielding to pressure from others to enter upon a field of public service.

Having dedicated my life to public service I am desirous of AMERICA LEADS IN SAVING FISH

Congress Considering Problem of Conserving Nation's Salmon Supply in Alaskan Waters.

INDUSTRY IS CO-OPERATING

Greatest Possible Attention Given to Cleanliness and the Comfort of the Men Engaged in Great Fishing Industry.

The United States leads the world in salmon packing. The greatest fishing is done in the waters of the northwestern territory and along the shores of Puget Sound and the Columbia River.

Congress has long wrestled with the problem of conservation of the salmon in Alaskan waters. A bill which probably will be enacted this session, sponsored by Secretary Herbert Hoover of the Department of Alaska Salmon Leaping Falls

Commerce, is designed to safeguard the Alaska salmon for this and future generations.

When the average housewife takes from the kitchen shelf a can of salmon for luncheon or the evening meal she probably gives little thought to the care that has been taken to insure its delivery to her in perfect condition.

Salmon is the greatest of all food products of the finny tribe. It is literally handled with white gloves and modern machinery from the time it is pulled from the waters of Alaska and other northwestern streams until it finds its way to the market.

According to William Timson, president of the Alaska Packers' Association, the oldest group engaged in the packing of salmon, every possible precaution is taken to insure a wholesome and delicious article of food.

"The salmon canneries of Alaska," said Mr. Timson, "like all other industries which prepare food products, have long recognized the need for employing the most modern methods available. Every leader of the industry takes great pride in arranging for the comfort and happiness of the men who do the actual work. Although our business is a seasonal one, which necessarily involves many troublesome problems, we spend thousands of dollars annually in making living conditions in Alaska the best possible for our workmen.

Cleanliness a Great Factor "Our association is ever on the alert to avail itself of the most modern methods and machinery. Can-neries are kept clean and every care is taken to see that the highest state of sanitation is reached. We realize the necessity of keeping abreast of the times and only by the most improved canning methods are we able to retain the confidence that we have long enjoyed from the public.

"The Alaska Packers' Association has always been foremost in the industry in recognizing the need for carrying out well-established principles of sanitation. We believe the comfort and happiness of the men whom we employ in our Alaskan can-neries is essential if we are to produce an article of food which will continue to meet the approval of the consumer."

Many of the larger canning companies in Alaska pay particular attention to hospital facilities at their canneries. The buildings are up-to-date and fitted with modern equipment. Employees and resident natives alike are treated without charge.

Curious Habits of Salmon Red salmon are principally caught during three months of the year—June, July and August. Fleets of sailing vessels and other craft leave Pacific Coast ports each spring loaded with men who engage in the salmon fishing in Alaskan waters.

Naturally among the most prolific of the fish family, the salmon may be relied upon to reproduce its kind if given a fair chance and this both the government officials and packers are determined the salmon shall have.
The guardians of the people's interests and far-seeing men of the industry have united in an effort to obtain Federal legislation which will conserve without destroying either the fishing or the fish.

The peregrinations of the salmon after spawning in fresh water streams take them into the broad seas where they wander about from two to six years. They then start back to their homes. As they return to the spawning areas the salmon are generally caught before they enter the rivers, because by then they have grown into the large, toothsome morsels so much coveted as food. It is said that the fish make a better food product if caught here than they would if caught when they have actually reached the spawning areas.

It's worth noting that Zerolene "stands up" in this sort of service as well as in all others. The Business Manager of the "Spokesman-Review," of Spokane, Wash., writes as follows:

"For more than ten years we have continued to use Zerolene oils and greases in our sixteen cars and trucks and three motorcycles. These carry our papers every day in the year over all sorts of roads in all kinds of weather, and may be classed as very hard service."

Why pay tribute to the superstition that "eastern" oil is "better" just because it costs more? Zerolene, made by our patented high-vacuum process from selected Western Naphthenic Base Crude, deposits less carbon, increases the gasoline mileage of your car, and lengthens its working life.

Insist on Zerolene—a bet-
